

Adrian Dennis

I have lived in Thornton Heath since 1979, my children have gone to the local schools and I have served as a school governor on the two nearby primary schools and the two nearby secondary schools (boys and girls).

I have been active in local groups in this area since about 1980 and was a Local Councillor for this area for 20 years.

I am now Semi-Retired but also part time self-employed Planning Consultant. I am Chair of Croydon Disability Forum and Secretary of CACFO UK, and a Trustee of both (and registered with Charities Commission).

I have experience of the education system as a pupil, parent, school governor, and for several years also a member of the Croydon Council Education Committee.

I have a B.Sc. from London School of Economics, (Post Graduate) Dip. T.P. Town Planning and am a Member of the Royal Town Planning Institute.
